ABOUT THIS — AND — ABOUT THAT

By OLIVER GEDEIST

RADIO GOODIES—There's much foolishness, or worse, on radio programs. In the sum total, of course, there is a bit that has value. Of course, there are too many nitwits who think they are funny—must holler a lot to create mass amusement. But there are some good things, too.

THE KEY—Recently a minister, commenting upon unhappiness in marriage, offered this as a key to marital satisfaction: couples should not seek for "happiness" in married life. Instead they should seek to be helpful to each other. When two persons try to be helpful, thinking of the other first, happiness must naturally pop up like corn from a bed of hot ashes.

BORES—Do you have a "perfect" friend? Hardly. The "perfect" one cannot be a friend. He must be a bore. He is too self-satisfied. And self-satisfaction makes one a curse to all his acquaintances. Some one has said that people who think they are perfect are merely intellectually ossified.

ALL WRONG—In Springfield the state's solons are having much trouble in redistricting the state. That's for our members of the national House of Representatives. The method is all wrong. Instead of giving another member of the Congress to Chicago, several should be taken away. The entire country should be redistricted according to area, so there would be fewer congressmen. The fact that a city has a large population is no reason for giving to its radicals control of the government. The average city-raised population would not know which end of a horse to head toward a plow. There's more intelligence in country areas than in any city. If America is to preserve itself in the character that made it great, it must cut off city monopoly in our national legislature—and in our state legislatures.

POVERTY—The nations are continuing poverty psychology in economic planning. Setting up sensible minimum wage standards throughout the world on penalty of excluding products would assure prosperity for hundreds and hundreds of millions of people now in abject poverty, and banish the fear of depressions or recessions. It would, also, release slave labor as practiced by Soviet Russia. It would restore or build the dignity of man. Labor union heads would not like it, but their members would.

LOOKING TO RUSSIA—Mr. Henry Wallace is quoted as having said that because of our foreign policy the "common man" in millions now must look to Russia for ideals for living. Strange how an intelligent man can find so much good, looking down into a deep filth-filled well.

THE GREATS—Many who cannot find in present-day (not "modern") art and music the equal to the "greats" of early centuries overlook the fact that those "early" greats impressed because they had a world with limited education, limited understanding, little competition. At the time of most of the early "great painters" the world, or Europe, was only wriggling out of the Dark Ages. Don't forget THAT when present-day artists' work is viewed.

SWAYED—That leads to the thought that we are swayed by mass appeal. Some one says a thing is "perfectly marvelous" and instantly we see the "wonder" without thinking or analyzing. "It's a wonderful book," some one says, and the statement is accepted as fact without analysis to determine if the speaker is an authority—that is, with wide experience and understanding, with an analytical mind.

BETTER—It's better, always, to do some sound thinking before accepting other persons' ideas of values.

30 Days of Fishing

Clifford Raschke has gone to Haywood, Wis., where he will make life uncertain for bass in that region. When he tires of bass, he expects to go to Bayfield, where he will tackle deep-sea fish. He expects to be gone a month.

The Federal Housing Administration has announced approval of mortgage insurance financing of $27,500,000 for the construction of 3,010 rental homes by the American Community Builders, Inc., a Chicago firm that plans to build a completely new and modern satellite city 30 miles south of Chicago's Loop.

"This rental development is the first step to create a well-planned thoroughly livable town," Philip M. Klutznick, president of the company, commented. "It is calculated to meet the current dire need for rental facilities and at the same time to weave into the overall plan for the development of the community. The sale of homes has been deferred until a later building program involving an additional 4,000 to 5,000 dwellings. By that time there will be less urgency for veteran's rental housing."

The rental section, now planned in detail by Loebl, Schlossman and Bennett, Chicago architectural firm associated with the ACB, will include 2,800 two- and three-bedroom units in multiple family "town and country" houses and twin houses. Two hundred will be one-bedroom units.

Rents will range from $65 to $87.50, with a few units, renting for $90 a month, according to Nathan Manlow, treasurer of the ACB and president of the Chicago Metropolitan Home Builders association.

Priority will be given to veterans in renting the dwellings, according to Mr. Klutznick, who added that veterans with families would be given the most consideration.

In the rental area, a "tot-yard" for each 15 to 20 homes is being provided. There will be nine large playgrounds with equipment and space for competitive sports. All play yards will be surfaced and well drained.

The maid of honor was Miss Charlotte Nelson of Levy, Ark., a sister of the bride. She wore an aqua marquette floor-length dress and carried a spray of yellow carnations.

(EDITORIAL)

DO NOT CLOSE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Within the next 10 days many voters must decide whether education shall be discontinued for their children. The decision will be made when voters go to the polls to vote upon increased tax levies.

If the increased tax levies are approved at the polls, your children may then go on to school, but if the increased tax levies fail to receive a majority at the polls, your children may be among those denied school attendance next term.

Yes, it's as simple as that. And do not blame your school boards. Blame legislation at Springfield, including the Butler bill, which denies to districts the reasonable amount of approved levies needed to maintain schools and pay teachers.

Good citizens demand education. This is a community of the highest type of citizenship. It is only a matter of good citizenship to go to the polls in your school district and mark your ballot YES, to keep our children in school.

Audrey Niethammer In Sunday Recital

Audrey Niethammer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Niethammer of Front street, Mokena, will appear in a dancing and dramatic art recital in Joliet township high school auditorium next Sunday, June 22, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The recital is to be presented by Mrs. George Hauser of Joliet, instructor in dancing and dramatic art. The presentation will be open to the public.

Frankfort Lions club, representing business and professional people over a large area, Tuesday night went on record in favor of the increased school levy for educational purposes, to be voted on in several districts in this area within the next week or two.

With the rates established in the several districts, the circumstances of shortages of funds all result from the same cause, according to Albert H. Krusemark Jr., who analyzed the tax situation and the urgent need for more actual cash against theoretical income, to avoid closing of schools.

The need for the increased tax levy, it was developed, springs from criss-cross purpose legislation in Springfield, which prohibits the collection of the full amount of present levies. For the purpose of showing how this worked out, Mr. Krusemark used District 157 as an example, although the same situation applies to each other district to vote on increased levy, he said.

District 157, Mr. Krusemark disclosed, has at present a maximum levy of .75. But the district is not allowed, under the criss-cross laws, to actually collect more than .348, as against an urgent need for approximately .55. This latter figure is under the rate of .75 previously voted, but not allowed under the peculiar conglomeration of laws.

The various districts, including Green Garden and Mokena district 159, district 161, and others throughout the area and county, are faced with the stark fact that unless the increased levy to be voted upon between now and the end of the month shall be approved by the voters, many schools will close, and others will be without necessary teachers.

Using district 157 as an example, the need is for about $10,500; allowing for uncollected school taxes, the total amount available for the school year will be in round figures $8,300. Except for the Butler bill, it was stated, the board could borrow, in this instance, from the building fund; but that bill prevents such borrowing or transferring.

The upshot, it was emphasized, is that unless the increased school tax levy is approved at the polls, the board cannot borrow additional funds at the bank to carry over for the difference between the $8,300 available and the $10,500 needed, since the peculiar set of laws has set collection back to a 1944 basis.

Increased costs of supplies, increased teachers' salaries, with the new provision that $1800 annually shall be the minimum paid to a teacher in Illinois, the jump in fuel costs—all add up, it was agreed, to this: voters must approve the increased levies to be voted upon at imminent elections, or close many schools.

Mrs. Kohl Wins Prize

HOMER SABIN OF MARLEY TAKES BRIDE IN NIAGARA FALLS CHURCH CEREMONY

At a wedding ceremony in the First Methodist church in Niagara Falls, N. Y., at 5 o'clock last Saturday evening, June 14, Miss Lillian Margaret Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Cooper of Niagara Falls, became the bride of Homer Harrison Sabin, son of Harry H. Sabin of Marley.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Eugene J. Fleury, before the altar decorated with baskets of summer garden flowers. Mrs. Ruth Sisson of Grand Rapids, Mich., was the soloist, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. James McCormick of Niagara Falls.

The bride's gown was of white summer satin, delicately embroidered at the neck with tiny seed pearls. It was fashioned with a silk marquisette skirt ending in a train. Her fingertip lace-trimmed veil fell from a lace crown trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of calla lilies.

The maid of honor was sister of the bride, Miss Kathleen Cooper. Brides-

Sorenson-O'Brien

The East room of the Edgewater Beach hotel was the scene of the wedding ceremony, June 14, 1947, uniting Miss Ethel Sorenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Sorenson of Mokena, and Wilbur O'Brien, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James O'Brien of Paxton. The Rev. Mr. Wills of the Country Church of the City officiated at the single-ring ceremony.

For her wedding Miss Sorenson wore a white dressmaker suit with gold accessories. Her corsage was of natural orchids. Mrs. Norva Robinson, who was matron of honor for her sister, chose an aqua blue suit and brown accessories and her corsage was of yellow roses.

Alvin Sorenson, brother of the bride, served the groom as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Sorenson wore a navy blue crepe dress trimmed with pink and blue accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations. After the ceremony a seven-course dinner was served to members of the immediate family in the main dining room of the Edgewater Beach hotel.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien will live in Chicago.

Sportsmen Set 4th Picnic In New Lenox

New Lenox Fourth of July plans have been matured, it has been announced. This actually sums up, according to the announcement, to a whopping big affair on the hot-month holiday.

The picnic will be under the direction of the New Lenox chapter of Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's clubs, and is to have band concert, trap shooting, bingo, ball game, and plenty of entertainment.

Noon on the Fourth is the starting time, but no one has announced that participants will have to go home before the end of 12 hours, or midnight.

A. H. Krusemark Injured In Crash

A. H. Krusemark of Frankfort was the victim of a mishap Tuesday night of last week when his car struck the rear of a car said to have been driven by John Fairbairn of 411 Krakar avenue, Joliet.

Mr. Krusemark reported that the other car was without tail light, and that his lights were dimmed for oncoming traffic and he could not see the car ahead minus tail light.

The crash was two miles west of New Lenox on route 30. Mr. Krusemark's injuries consisted of bruises on the head and a back injury. The driver of the other car was reported unhurt.

D. G. Haass Graduates

Darrell G. Haass of Frankfort was recently graduated with honors from the University of Illinois.

Tinley Park's homecoming celebration is all "formed up" and ready to go, according to the chairmen of the various committees and managers of the various Tinley Park organizations having concessions at the homecoming, the sixth annual affair of its kind in Tinley Park.

Louis Tops, with a wide reputation as an animal trainer, will present one of the highly unusual in animal acting. Using domestic animals and fowl, Mr. Tops will present something to keep the children in stitches and make older folks reluctant to leave the show.

"Rusty" is one of the characters. Rusty is just an ordinary rooster—or was before it landed in the hands of Mr. Tops. Now it's an extraordinary fowl, it is said by those who have seen the act. But as good as is Rusty, Mr. Tops declares that Ros Ko is the star of the show. Ros Ko is what Mr. Tops calls a "college-educated" talking crow, a veteran of sport shows just about everywhere. He holds the title of "the world's most photographed bird".

All this and other acts are scheduled for June 27, 28, 29, in Tinley Park, and along with enumerated acts there are Jimmy (with his monkeyish pranks; he loves to make children laugh), people; the latter include two stars—Gene Colin and Ray Joplin, well-known to thousands in this area.

Gene Colin is a former member of the "Hoosier Sod Busters," known to millions of radio fans. At one time he won a citation and $100 reward for the arrest of a gang of thieves; he was then a policeman in Oak Park. His specialty is an electric guitar, plus imitations and vocal work on his own arrangements.

The homecoming celebration begins at Saenger Grove Friday morning June 27, and continues through three days.

Peter Ludwig Dies

Peter Ludwig, 87, who farmed in Homer township for 30 years before retiring 25 years ago, died in his home in Lemont, Wednesday, June 11, after a week's illness.

He is survived by four sons, John of Palos Park, Andrew of Orland Park, Casper and Lawrence of Lockport; three daughters, Miss Margaret Ludwig and Mrs. Marion Gerhartz of Lemont and Mrs. Abbie Timm of Lockport; two brothers, Thomas and Casper of Lemont; one sister, Mrs. Matthew Lesch, also of Lemont; 27 grandchildren, and 7 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held in St. Alphonsus church, Lemont, Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, with burial in St. Alphonsus cemetery.

DOAN'S PILLS

The FICTION Corner

PERFECT STRANGER

By JACK MOSHER

It was as if every word he spoke was scraped from the walls of his stomach, left some mark.

THE first thing Celia Brandon noticed about him was the way he sat. As if, she thought, studying the man at the corner table across the top of her menu, he had been propped up in his chair and was likely, at any minute, to go sliding off on the floor.

"Does he come in often?" "Yes-a, Miss," said her waiter. "Every night this-a week, he come. But he does not eat. He just-a sits and sits."

Celia examined her find more closely. Saw that his skin was stretched altogether too tightly across his high cheekbones for him to be in good health.

And his hair was greying much too rapidly, and his clothes were much too shabby for Garibaldi's, which was on 52nd just around the corner from the theatre district—a place where only the famous could afford to be shabby and where the really shabby rarely came.

"Perhaps," she said, "he hasn't the price of a meal."

"Then why does he come?"

The waiter's attitude, Celia felt, was a coldly commercial one. The way most folks with something to sell looked upon those who had no money to buy. And determined to put the waiter in his place, she said, "I thought his face was familiar. Yes, of course! It's Freddy Malone. . . . Tell him," she said, "that I'd like him to join me."

"Yes-a, Miss!"

For a moment after the waiter had delivered this invitation uncertainty marked the man's lean features. There was a frightened expression in his deep-set eyes as they met hers. But when Celia countered with just the right degree of warmth in her own—the degree one would extend to a man friend not seen in many years yet warmly remembered—he rose and came toward her table.

He walked unsteadily and she wondered if he might be intoxicated. If that explained his propped-up appearance of a moment ago. Then he was alongside, bowing just a little from the waist, and she was saying, "It's so good to see you again, Fred."

"Yes, isn't it," he said. "Thanks for asking me over." His tones made her feel that he was hungry. It was as if every word he spoke was scraped from the walls of his stomach, left some mark. And now that he was closer she could not mistake the suffering which lined his face. It was the kind that comes to those who find themselves alone in the world's largest city when dark closes in.

More than food, she felt certain, was needed here. He needed good cheer. Someone to talk with. To make the joke with. To cry with. Someone who would supply the things people needed so badly here in New York during the long lonesome months of waiting for a break that sometimes never came.

"How about a coke?" she said. "A pepper-upper, as they say."

He turned to the waiter, chuckling miraculously.

"A pepper-upper," he ordered, "for the lady." Then, when the waiter had gone off and leaning closer across the white tablecloth,

"Look! It's nice of you. Having me like this, I mean. But I can't accept—"

"Forget it," Celia said, trying her utmost to spare him. "I don't know about you, but I'm hungry. Let's concentrate on dinner."

"Yes, of course. The dinner."

"How about some sea food?"

"Not for me," He made a wry face. "I've just come from there. Maybe you took notice of my roll."

"I wondered what it was."

"IT'S THE genuine article," he assured her. "A Clyde-Mallory Line freighter just brought me back from the Far East. . . . You see," he hurried on as if he had just so much time in which to tell it, "I struck it tough in Singapore. Went out there to work for a big oil company. It wasn't so big, because it folded a few weeks after I arrived. I was on the beach three months, broke to the wide, before I got this chance to work my way home—"

"Forget that now," Celia said, judging from his tones that every word must be an effort for him.

"This Spaghetti Italiane sounds mighty good to me."

"But I can't forget," he insisted. "And I think you should hear me out. Have you ever," he demanded, while Celia could find not a word with which to check him, "known what it is to be hungry, to starve?"

"Did you ever go for days with nothing but what black servants hand out at kitchen doors? Do you know what it feels like to be—"

"I can well imagine," Celia interrupted, more firmly this time. "I've heard New York is no different than Singapore if it comes to that. But let's get on with ordering now, eh?"

"Yes, of course. Ordering."

He sounded the least bit let down. As if he were offended by her apparent lack of interest in his story.

But he bucked up as the meal progressed from soup through Spaghetti Italiane with meat sauce, as only Garibaldi's can make it, to dessert. He grew quite genial and mellow, in fact.

"I must see more of you," he said. "You do me good."

"We do each other good, you mean."

"THAT'S IT!" He was as enthusiastic as a school boy attending his first grown-up date.

"I could get a job in Mexico. There's a fellow—"

"But why not try here in New York?"

"In an office?"

"Not necessarily."

"Then what?"

"Had you ever thought of acting," Celia said as the waiter returned with a small silver tray containing a half dollar and three thin dimes.

"You know what they say? If you can't make a go of anything else you're sure to click on the stage. And it seems to me," she added, making a fine show of waving the waiter and the eighty cents away, "that with the experience you've had knocking around the world you could put a lot of punch into play-acting."

He smiled broadly.

"Maybe you're right. In fact, I know you're right."

"What do you mean?"

"Simply," he told her, "that I AM stage. I've just been putting on an act here. Rehearsing for my new play. . . . I need a girl to play opposite me. She's rich as all get out. Money doesn't mean a thing to her. . . . That's exactly the kind of girl you are in real life. So how about coming around in the morning to sign a contract? I'm Noel Howard."

"Noel Howard?" Celia didn't spare the name mentioned with awe around casting offices where she had spent months trying to get a small part in his new production—in any production. "Then, listen you!" she flung at him. "How about buying me another dinner right now? I couldn't eat a bit of that one for thinking I'd spent my last five dollars. . . ."

THE TRAGIC END OF A NATION

LESSON TEXT—II Kings 25:1-12.
MEMORY SELECTION—Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people.—Proverbs 14:34.

The end of the road! Down, down, down went Judah in its sinful refusal to keep God's Word, and ultimately came the final day of reckoning. It always does! The catastrophe which had long been approaching had arrived at last.

The fall of a capital city, which carries with it the empire, is a world-shaking event. The fall of Rome shattered the world for a thousand years. The fall of Berlin and Tokyo are within the memory of all of us, and the results are seen in a disordered world.

The destruction of Jerusalem, which our lesson presents, was even more serious; for it was not only a national tragedy, but also one with deep religious significance.

The wicked king Jehoiakim was succeeded by his son Jehoiachin, a mere boy who reigned only three months. He gave way to Nebuchadnezzar, who appointed as his successor his uncle Zedekiah.

It is in the verses just preceding our lesson that we learn that Zedekiah turned against Babylon in an act of

I. Rebellion (v. 1).

Zedekiah ignored his oath of allegiance (II Chron. 36:13), for which he was condemned by Ezekiel as a traitor (Ezek. 17:13-18). Zedekiah has well been called the vanishing point in a diminishing line of kings. It was an evil thing he did (II Kings 24:19), and one which showed his conceit, vanity and rashness.

True it was that he only followed what he had learned from his predecessors, but that is never a good excuse for a man foolishly to turn against God's will.

Observe that God was not just a disinterested spectator, and yet he had come to the place where he let Judah go down to its own awful doom. The worst thing that can happen to a man or a nation is to be let alone by God!

Zedekiah's act of folly quickly brought

II. Retribution (vv. 2-10).

Jeremiah urged Zedekiah to surrender (see Jer. 37, 38) in order to save Jerusalem and himself, but he refused, and the city was besieged.

The king's refusal to hear God's prophet and his turning to Egypt for help speak to us of the manner in which unrepentant sinners reject God's mercy and then seek help at the hopeless cisterns of this world (Jer. 2:13).

The king tried to flee, but was taken captive. Then came the siege of Jerusalem. For one and one-half years the enemy gradually closed in, while famine and distress grew apace in the city. Jeremiah went through this entire period sharing his people's trouble. The book of Lamentations is the record of this eyewitness.

Sin does its terrible work. Even as it can take a great city and turn it into a plague spot marked by cruelty, suffering and death, even so it can bring forth its inevitable and unspeakable results in the life of the individual who persists in resisting the voice of God.

Note also that the sin of Zedekiah brought quick judgment, not only on himself, but upon his innocent children (v. 7), and on many in the besieged city who were equally guiltless of wrongdoing. It is again a picture of what sin does today in the homes and communities of our nation.

III. Removal (vv. 11, 12).

The fall of Jerusalem prepared the way for the closing scene of the immediate history of the nation as the people went into captivity. It also ended for the time being the history of the city that had once so proudly held a position of privilege and power, but was now brought down by its sin and rebellion against God.

We say rightly that history repeats itself. We see that any nation that lifts itself up in pride and forgets God will inevitably perish. We ask ourselves where our beloved country stands. As we consider its debauchery and drunkenness, its disregard of moral standards, its indifference to the things of God, we feel that instead of pointing a finger of scorn at Judah, we ought to be on our faces before God in penitence and shame.

Let us not assume that we hold a place of favor with God, which exempts us from the certainty of judgment. Israel was his chosen, and they still are, for his promises of ultimate blessing to them have never been withdrawn. But their sin brought certain punishment, and the same is true today not only of the nation but of the individual.

The Sunday school lessons will take up the history of Israel again at this point in April, 1948, when we consider the captivity and the partial return of the people to their land.

Laying Hens
Green feed supplies vitamins A and G, and because both vitamins are necessary for maximum egg production and hatchability, laying hens should be allowed to range.

Rail Operating Expenses
Higher wage rates and prices of fuel, materials and supplies since 1939 have increased rail operating expenses annually by approximately $2,100,000,000.

Home-Made Dresses
To assure a good fit in a home-made dress, necessary alterations should be made on the paper pattern before cutting the material.

Rice Consumption
An average American consumes 5.8 pounds of rice a year. In Hawaii and Puerto Rico the average is 128 pounds a year.

Rail Traffic at Peak
Passenger traffic in 1946 was 32 per cent below the war peak of 1944 but 39 per cent above the former peace time peak of 1920.

Belgian Horse
The modern Belgian horse is a descendant of the Flemish horse, which was used by the Roman armies.

Fluorescent Lamp Popular
Industrial and commercial establishments are using 60,000,000 fluorescent lamps.

Ironing Tip
The iron will not stick to starched pieces if the clothes are sprinkled with warm water.

Wax Blinds
Venetian blinds are easier to care for if they have been rubbed

More Milk Needed
A 100 per cent increase in the world milk supply will be necessary to meet even the first nutritional goals of the Food and Agriculture Organization.

Rail Receiverships
Twenty-three Class I railroads and 47 railroads of other classes, representing 16 per cent of miles of road operated, were in receivership or trusteeship at the end of 1946.

Children's Shoes
Children's shoes should not be resoled for further wear unless they are one-half inch longer and one-quarter wider than the child's feet.

Shower Costs Money
On the average a man's daily shower takes $7.50 worth of water a year, while a tub bath uses up only $3 worth.

Farm Ponds
The use of farm ponds to supply stock water has become a common practice in areas where wells are not dependable.

Rail Outgo
The ratio between railroad expenses and revenues exceeded 80 per cent in 1946, the greatest for any year since 1920.

Hemoglobin Colors Meat
The pink or red color of meat is due to the hemoglobin of the blood still present in the tissues and to the hemoglobin of the muscle.

Strawberry Mulch
As soon as the top soil begins to freeze at night it is a good time to apply a protective mulch to strawberry beds.

Business To Tell
American Story

American opportunity!

What it means and how it works—

That is the title and the task of a nation-wide effort undertaken jointly by business leaders, public opinion specialists, economists and advertisers, cooperating with the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The objective is to give the American people better understanding of their enterprise system and its benefits. The chief medium of this effort will be advertising.

An example of the economic truths the joint effort will seek to tell in concrete language is the following:

The average American can earn a pair of shoes with six hours work—the average Russian 30 days, the average European 20 days.

In 1900 it took the average American 24 hours to earn that same pair of shoes. In 1920, only 12 hours.

A Hooverism

"All men are equal before fish,"—Herbert Hoover, commenting on why Presidents go fishing.

M. on said date.

Dated this 9th day of June, 1947.
By order of the Board of Directors of School District Number 161, Will County, Illinois.

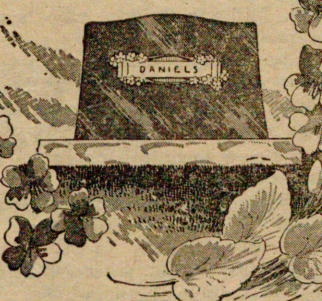

WM. SCHELLHASE,

President, Board of Directors of School District Number 161, Will County, Illinois.

Attest:

JOHN G. BETTENHAUSEN

We have cash buyers waiting for anyone wishing to sell property. Kindly phone our office for one of our special agents to call. We have sold millions of dollars worth of property on the South and Southwest sides. I specialize in suburban homes. I don't fool around, the minute your home is listed with me for sale I get ready to advertise in the Chicago calling on clients who have been out to my office and told us just what they would be interested in. I send a copy of the paper to each owner has been advertised. A great many times the property is sold before we where my advertisement appears. In this way you are sure your property have a chance to advertise. When a deal is pending we hold off our advertisement a few days as each salesman has many cash buyers to get in touch with immediately. I demand action from my Salesmen and if the house is not sold within a reasonable time it is advertised again and the Salesmen are instructed to double their efforts. This Month in Your Service BULLETIN

We decided that we could use some High Adventure. So we packed our bags and set off for the historical Land of Spice. We talked to People of All Ages. We saw the Primitive gent alleged to have discovered cinnamon. His remarks were highly aboriginal. We hurried on to Antiquity. It was Saturday night and the gamy ancients were basting themselves in perfume. That was the law. A vacationing crocodile revealed that "crocodile tears" were caused by a certain spice. "It does something to us," he said frankly. The Denizens of the Dark Ages said with enthusiasm "Spices make spoiled food taste REAL good." Slipping a cutlass between our teeth, we sailed through pirate-infested seas into the Age of Exploration. We darted into the Eighteenth Century to visit four thieves and to ogle the House of Parliament; We got a story and John McKee got sketches for CHRONICLE OF CONDIMENTS.

Silver Cross Starts Building Fund Quest

With local chairmen named in various communities, it is expected that the entire county will be organized in the interest of the Silver Cross hospital building fund campaign by June 19, the date on which the canvass of the general public has been scheduled to start, it was announced by C. H. Peterson of Joliet, county chairman. Elmer Cooper is chairman of the Mokena committee. G. F. Krog is chairman of the New Lenox committee.

Several from this community were among the 350 interested citizens of Will county who attended the preliminary dinner meeting in the Elks club building at Joliet last Friday night, at which time plans for the proposed addition to Silver Cross hospital were presented. Otis L. Jones, president of the hospital board of trustees, presided, and M. H. Hollingsworth, chairman of the general campaign committee was toastmaster. W. Franklin Barrett, chairman of the hospital board's executive committee and head of the expansion fund steering committee, explained the need for additional hospital beds, the proposed Silver Cross addition which will provide 90 additional beds, and the plans for the fundraising campaign.

The guest speaker was Joseph G. Norby of Milwaukee, prominent hospital administrator and leader in state and national hospital association activities. Mr. Norby said that the American way is for people to secure health services through agencies of their own, rather than look to government to meet these needs through regimentation.

Urging that "hospitals are not a luxury—they are a necessity," Mr. Norby said national figures have shown that year after year one in 10 persons of the total population seeks hospital care, and, during the last several years, since hospitalization has become more available through various insurance plans, the ratio now points to one in eight.

It is important, therefore, that every community have accessible to its people adequate hospital facilities to meet these increasing demands and to assure that no person in need of hospital care shall be turned away because of inadequate facilities, the speaker urged, it was stated.

Heavy Rains To Add To Milk Supply

There's a bit of silver lining after all on these black rain clouds which have drenched Illinois farm lands this spring.

The cool moist weather, according to E. E. Houghtby, director of dairy marketing for the Illinois Agricultural association, assures Illinois of one of the greatest flush seasons for the production of milk on record.

Consumers, it was said, will have a plentiful supply of milk, ice cream, and other dairy products available this year due to the excellent condition of pastures which already have moisture sufficient to carry them through the end of June.

milk generally reaches its peak during It was pointed out that production of the latter part of May in the southern half of the state and during the first half of June in the northern half of the state. Production peaks will be later this year because of the cool spring weather.

Last year Illinois dairymen produced more milk with fewer cows than they did the preceding year. With still fewer cows this year, Mr. Houghtby said, Illinois dairymen are now virtually equalling last year's production.

This increased production with fewer cows, the director said, speaks well for the efficient management of dairy farmers whose high production can be attributed to scientific breeding for high producers, culling of low producers, sanitation, good shelter, ample pastures, and scientific supplementary feeding.

Uncle Sam Says

Ponder these facts, niece and nephew. In 1937 many Americans bought the Series C Savings Bond, similar in every respect to the present Series E bond which millions of you are now buying regularly through payroll savings or at your bank or post office.

During 1947 the Treasury Department will hand over $4 for every $3 these wise Americans laid away 10 years ago. The total payoff in interest is a staggering sum—over $100,000,000. Nearly 75 per cent of all buyers of Series C bonds held on to them for the full 10 years. You have the opportunity now to join your fellow Americans who will share in the Treasury Department's 1957 payoff of an extra dollar for every $3 you invest now in Savings Bonds.

VETERANS URGED TO WRITE LEGIBLY WITH DETAILS

Approximately 140,000 letters from veterans lie in Veterans Administration insurance branch office No. 7 at 615 West Van Buren street, Chicago, the administration announces, simply because veterans in writing fail to write legibly and fail to properly identify themselves.

Officials of Veterans Administration in the Joliet area urge veterans to write clearly, giving name, service address, service serial, and insurance number when writing, for the purpose of positive identification.

Insurance assistance is available to veterans at the Joliet VA office in the Morris building, 58 North Chicago street.

OPPOSED FEDERAL BARGES

Private barge operators on the Mississippi River system—a $150 million industry—are gunning for the Federal Barge Lines as unfair competition. They want Congress to kill off their subsidized competitor.

Private owners say Federal Lines lost $2.6 million last year. The private owners object to competing with a line whose deficits are paid by the taxpayers. Spokesmen for the railroads have entered the fray on the barge men's side, denouncing Federal Barge Lines as a socialist experiment.

WORK FOR SONS ONLY

In Mineola, Long Island, N. Y., recently, ten workers threatened with loss of their jobs, and who were prevented from joining the union because it was closed to all except sons of union members, went to court.

But the court denied them a temporary injunction to save their jobs. "The plaintiffs must appeal to the legislature for the relief which the court is powerless to give them," said the judge. And then added, "The courts have no control over the membership of labor unions."

It takes thousands of dollars to buy equipment necessary to put a factory worker to work. As an example, in the oil industry, $25,000 is invested for each worker.

Glue Holds 200-ton Locomotive

A new plastic glue capable of supporting a 200-ton locomotive is the latest.

The glue, developed in an industrial research laboratory, may be used on wood, cloth, leather, rubber, paper, china, and plastics. Under suitable conditions it can be used in temperatures varying from 300 degrees above zero to 60 degrees below.

CLOUD HOPPERS

Air-taxi service at six cents a mile is being introduced by American industry!

An airplane manufacturer is at work building up the service on a nationwide basis. Small planes carrying pilot and two passengers and their baggage will cruise 600 mile jaunts at 105 miles per hour. Two-way radios will insure continuous contact with radio towers.

The company will have about 1500 of the aerial taxi-cabs in service by midsummer.

40 & 8 RODEO RECEIPTS TO BE USED FOR VETS IN ORLAND PARK HOSPITAL

What promises to be the greatest group of national champion cowboy contestants ever assembled will meet in the Chicago championship rodeo, to be staged in Soldier Field July 14-20 for benefit of the 40 & 8 convalescent center in Orland Park.

Chicago Voiture 220, world's largest unit of the international La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux (Forty and Eight Society, American Legion honor group) is sponsoring the event, which has been sanctioned by the governing Rodeo Cowboy association. Proceeds will be used to expand 220's veteran convalescence program.

Official saddle bronc and brahma steer riding, calf roping, bare-back riding and bulldogging contests scheduled here are gaining wide attention. Contestant entry fees added to the posted $11,250.00 prize money will make the Chicago show the major rodeo event of the year.

The 40 & 8 convalescent center is located at Orland Park, 25 miles southwest of Chicago's Loop on Illinois highway 7. High rolling wooded tracts and farm lands provide ideal conditions for restoring sound minds and bodies of veterans too weak to return home or go back to work after hospitalization. Outdoor occupational therapy programs are combined with fresh air, nutritious food, and regular rest in cottages designed to eliminate the hospital atmosphere.

Army, navy, marine, and veterans administration hospitals, which send men to Orland Park to town back health and vigor, have placed an increased demand upon the facility. The rodeo is planned to help provide funds for needed additional buildings and equipment.

Jimmy Wakely, Monogram Pictures and Capitol Records singing cowboy sensation, will top the specialty acts on the program. A rodeo queen will be selected to reign with him during the show.

Winner of the Chicago rodeo queen contest will receive a rodeo contract and appear in a Monogram production with Jimmy Wakely. The contest is open to all girls between 18 and 25 years old. Entry blanks can be obtained from Patricia Stevens, 30 W. Washington St., Chicago 1, who will screen contestants for a panel of judges to be announced later.

John S. Cusack, 8730 S. Bishop street, is general chairman of Voiture 220's rodeo committee. Clarence D. Glasebrook, 5428 S. Monitor avenue, is secretary, and the treasurer is John R. Callow, 1119 Drummond place. Chairman of the ticket committee is Andy Cress, 2407 N. Orchard street. Headquarters has been established at 172 W. Randolph street.

DOGS, CATS MAY SPREAD BRUCELLOSIS TO HUMANS

Brucellosis, commonly called Bang's disease in cattle and undulant fever in man, can infect dogs and cats without their ever showing outward signs of the disease, according to the Journal of the American Veterinary Medical association.

This fact should be given serious thought by all pet owners, the Journal says, because it appears that dogs and cats may be capable of spreading this disease to their owners, as well as to other animals. Common site of brucellosis infection in pets is the genital organs, and often it can be detected only through an autopsy.

FARM ACCIDENTS HIGH
National Farm Safety Week, by President Truman's proclamation, will be July 20-27 this year. But farm accidents aren't waiting until safety week to happen. Back in February W. D. Murphy, state supervisor of extension farm labor for the University of Illinois college of agriculture, started collecting facts on farm accidents from Illinois farm advisers. Now he's totaled up the results of the three-month period from February 7 to May 9, and here they are:

During that time 30 Illinois farm people lost their lives in accidents—about one every three days. There was an average of a little more than three farm accidents reported for every day of the period, and people who escaped with their lives lost 4,785 days of work. Mr. Murphy adds that most of these accidents could have been avoided.

And remember—those accidents occurred during a relatively nonbusy season—before spring work had really got underway.

B. F. Goodrich announces a big reduction in the price of the famous Silvertown tire!

Yes, you can now buy all popular sizes of the tire that outwears prewar tires at actually less than prewar prices! And despite higher manufacturing costs too.

One of the things that makes possible this huge price reduction is the tremendous demand for the new Silvertown—greater than for any tire B. F. Goodrich ever produced. In fact, more miles have been driven on this new tire than any other tire introduced since the war.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnett Schram and family, Mrs. Bertha Neiland, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Neiland, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hartung and son attended the wedding of Wanda Mae Osmus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Osmus of Jackson, Mich. on June 15. They left Saturday and will stay a few days.

Mrs. Burnette Schram entertained a group of Alan and Arlan's playmates at a birthday party June 12. Games were played under the direction of Miss Barbara Bennett, after which a two-course luncheon was served. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Bertha Neiland her mother and Mrs. Lester Barton. The twins received many nice gifts and all departed having a nice time.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dittich had a pleasant surprise, when Ambrose House of Lockport her nephew and Anita Stank of Joliet came to her house with their bridal party (since Mrs. Dittich was unable to attend their wedding) that she might see them. The bride was attired in a beautiful white satin with long train and sleeves and sweetheart neck trimmed with pearls, as also the crown shaped cap, which held her long veil in place. The bridesmaid wore a floor length sheer yellow gown and blusher veil to match. She carried yellow roses. They stayed a few minutes then returned to Joliet where a reception was waiting for them.

ILLINOIS BELL

aims for new rural record

We've set a 1947 goal of 12,000 additional telephones in the farm and rural areas served by Illinois Bell. And that's more than 1,000 above our 1946 all-time record.

In our three-year, $3,000,000 farm and rural program, we're not just trying to bring service to as many families as we can. We're also doing our best to make that service better than ever. More customers have fewer rings of other parties on their lines. "Turn-the-crank" model telephones are being replaced by more modern instruments. Hundreds of miles of rural wire are being added—more switchboards are being installed.

We intend to keep at it until we can make your service the finest ever . . . until we can provide service for everyone who wants it.

ALONG THE ROCKBOUND COAST . . . Mount Desert island, off Maine's rocky coast, is the site of Acadia National park. Here angry waves lash the barren rocks of Schoodic Head.

NO CORNER ON SCENERY

East, Too, Boasts Its Parks—Four Great Wilderness Areas

WNU Features.

When national parks are mentioned, one thinks instinctively of the Far West—the Rocky mountains, the High Sierras, the southwestern deserts. Everyone has heard of Yellowstone park, with its geysers and boiling springs, Yosemite valley, with its incomparable waterfalls and stupendous cliffs. The smallest schoolboy can describe the titanic gorge known as Grand canyon. To many people, however, it may be a revelation to learn that the eastern half of the United States contains four great wilderness parks comparable in interest with the national parks in the West.

In North Carolina and Tennessee is located Great Smoky Mountains National park, 19 miles wide and 54 miles long. Shenandoah National park, with its famous Skyline drive, is in Virginia. Acadia National park in Maine and on an island in Lake Superior, not far from the Canadian shore but included in the territory of the State of Michigan, is Isle Royale National park.

The eastern parks present a sharp contrast to the parks of the West. In the West the mountains are bald and bold, the outlines severe and rugged. In the eastern parks the mountains are older, worn down by eons of erosive forces, with contours smoother and gentler, although by no means lacking in crags and cliffs. In the West the giant peaks pierce heights where trees no longer grow, while in the East the lush forests sweep over the highest summits. In the West one may find icy glaciers and snowfields in July, or at lower altitudes brave shimmering deserts under canopies of azure sky, but the East will be carpeted in green while overhead there will be lazy, cumulus clouds.

GREAT SMOKY Mountains park, a part of the ancient Appalachian range, straddles the North Carolina-Tennessee border, and is the highest mountain mass east of the Black Hills of South Dakota. Within the park boundaries are 16 more peaks more than 6,000 feet high.

About half the park, or approximately 200,000 acres, is in its original forested condition, containing the most extensive stand of virgin red spruce and hardwoods in the entire country. From this lush vegetation, which extends from the valleys to the tops of the lofty peaks, there rises a tenuous mist, a deep blue haze, from which the mountains get their name.

There is a transmountain road from park headquarters at Gatlinburg, Tenn., to Smokemont, N. C., and along this road one will see signs warning, "DO NOT FEED THE BEARS." In the park are deer, bobcats, and many other wild animals which have long ago disappeared from many sections of the East.

NORTHEASTWARD from the Great Smokies in Virginia lies Shenandoah National park, which includes a long section of the Blue Ridge mountains. To make this area accessible to visitors, a highway has been built along the crest of the mountains for the entire length of the park. This highway is known as Skyline drive and from it one may obtain breath-taking views of the fertile farmlands of Shenandoah valley and the Appalachian ranges to the west and of rolling foothills and the Piedmont plateau to the east.

The two parks have much in common. In the spring and early summer flowering plants and shrubs, such as dogwood, flame azalea, mountain laurel and rhododendron. In the fall the foliage is splashed with brilliant colors. There is good trout fishing in both parks and many miles of foot trails to attract those who like to hike.

ACADIA NATIONAL park covers a large portion of Mount Desert island off the rocky coast of Maine and is connected with the mainland by a bridge and a causeway. Part of the park lies also on the mainland and on nearby Isle au Haut. Here the mountains rise abruptly from the sea, and one may ride or hike through the magnificent northern woods or bask in the sun while watching the ships far out on the blue Atlantic. Mount Desert island is dotted with quaint fishing and resort villages and there are sea bathing, fishing, and boating.

ISLE ROYALE National park, long a haunt of moose and caribou known only to fishermen and to the Indians of the Great Lakes region, is a real wilderness. There are no motor roads on the island, and one must travel on foot, by horse or boat. Actually an archipelago consisting of one large island and nearly 200 small islands, it is a fisherman's and boatman's paradise. The islands are densely wooded and contain many rare varieties of plants and ferns. To reach the park one takes a boat from Houghton, Mich., a journey of several hours across Lake Superior, or from Grand Marais, Minn.

ROCK HARBOR lodge, on Isle Royale, is open from June 15 to September 15. There are no overnight accommodations in Acadia National park, but the Publicity Office, Bar Harbor, Me., will recommend hotels and lodging houses in the many villages on Mount Desert island. Likewise the Chamber of Commerce at Gatlinburg, Tenn., will furnish a list of hotels and tourist camps in the small towns bordering Great Smoky Mountains National park. Along the Skyline drive in Shenandoah National park from May to November hotels and cottages are operated. In all four of these wilderness parks, National Park service maintains free campsites, which may be used by all who bring their own equipment. And in all four parks one will find the familiar ranger-naturalists waiting and eager to answer all questions.

VIRGIN TIMBER . . . About half of Great Smoky Mountains National park is in its original forested condition. The lush vegetation is noted in this view showing Panorama tunnel on Skyline drive.

Old Indian Lookout Rebuilt as Monument

FORT SILL, OKLA.—Intended as another monument to the Old West, a blockhouse used during the last century as a warning station at Fort Sill, which survived the Indian wars but was damaged by an artillery shell in the last war, is being rebuilt.

With its commanding view for 60 miles across the plains of southwestern Oklahoma, the blockhouse was used to alert Fort Sill to marauding Indian bands. The fort received a special commendation by Gen. William T. Sherman of Civil war fame. Sherman once paid a visit to the fort and his party was spotted while it was still 30 miles away.

After surviving the hectic days of the Old West, the blockhouse was damaged when it was struck by a stray shell during maneuvers in 1942.

MILLIONS, many millions, follow low baseball records closely. This includes batting and pitching especially. But you often wonder just how much they actually mean.

Take the won and lost column. What chance has a pitcher working with a tailender or a cellar tender against one pitching for a winning team?

W. Johnson

ly would have a better average with a better team.

I recall in other years, that Christy Mathewson had no respect for an earned-run average.

"The main idea is to win the ball game," Matty used to say, "and to save yourself for more work on ahead. If I can pick up four or five runs, why pitch my arm off for an individual mark? This lead gives me a chance to rest my arm for other games. Pitchers who bear down all through nine innings are sure to have trouble later on."

Home-run records and strike outs are usually earned, although the quality of opposition is still a big factor.

Looking over pitchers, Phil Mar-childon of the Athletics ranks extremely high. Winning four games with the Athletics puts him far above such stars as Feller and Newhouser.

In checking along these lines, the two greatest pitching records belong to Walter Johnson and Grover Alexander.

Team Support Counts

Johnson won over 400 games working for a weak club, and one especially weak at bat. Washington could give Johnson few runs. He had no heavy artillery back of him throughout his long career. It was Johnson who had to face the Cobbs, Ruths, Jacksons, Speakers, Lajoies, Collins and such. The stars were all on the other side.

In the same way, Alexander, in his earlier years, had the weak Phillies with him, with Cubs, Giants, Pirates and other teams far better supplied with ballplayers.

His feat of pitching 16 shutouts in 1916 stands as a record that may never be touched. One reason is that he pitched many of these in the Phillies handbox park where a long fly meant a home run.

Alexander missed the opportunity of pitching for a strong team until he was moving over the hill. By the time Pete reached the Cubs and the Cardinals his prime had passed.

It is easy to understand why no good ballplayer, with a chance for stardom, cares about landing with a weaker, second-division club.

As far as pitching records go for 1947, what about Schoolboy Rowe and his mark with the Phillies? Also Dutch Leonard?

In sizing up records, you must take in the quality of the club and the quality of the opposition. Otherwise records can mean little.

Hartung, Matty, Sisler

No, Clint Hartung hasn't yet proved that he is or will be another Matty, Sisler or Ruth. But he is a member of their order, which might be known as the Club of Shifting Positions.

When tall, blond, good-looking Christy Mathewson reported to the Giants 47 years ago from Norfolk, Va., where he had won 21 games and lost 2, he promptly lost his first three starts in major league competition. Andy Freedman, the Giants owner, thereupon decided that Mathewson was a first baseman and should be so used.

It wasn't until John J. McGraw began to manage the Giants that Matty's full skill as a pitcher began to be realized. It wasn't long before the Bucknell entry was one of baseball's all-time sensations in the box, one of the best that all the years have uncovered.

The list of those in baseball who entered the portals as a star in one capacity and then switched jobs is a long one.

George Sisler was a star pitcher at Michigan. He could have been one of baseball's best left-handers. The Browns started him in the box, switched him to the outfield and then moved him to first. His fame as a pitcher or as an outfielder would have been enduring. He finished as the star first baseman of all time, a great ballplayer in every department, where his batting and his base running left him unchallenged at first.

Almost the same thing happened to a Baltimore kid still remembered as Babe Ruth.

The Babe broke in as a pitcher with the Red Sox and he was among the brilliant for five years. It was in 1919 that Ed Barrow decided that a cannon was more useful than a rifle, so the Babe was moved to an everyday job in the outfield, where increasing crowds could listen to the musical boom of his big bat.

DR. FLOTOW GREET'S SPRING AS RELIEF AFTER BITTER WINTER IN GERMAN CITY

There's more than personal satisfaction in planning for rehabilitation of school buildings. That "more" is a sort of double satisfaction—one, gratitude to his former New Lenox fellow townspeople for helping make life easier for distressed Brementers (in Germany), and the other that spring arrived to melt away the bitterness of an extra bitter winter.

That's about the right interpretation of a letter from Dr. Ernest A. Flotow, former superintendent of New Lenox schools.

Early this year Dr. Flotow wrote to friends in New Lenox that a very great many people in the occupied area where in desperate need of clothing.

Then New Lenox went into action. Headed by John Oster, now head of New Lenox school, a drive quickly netted more than 30 boxes of clothing, handled and shipped under the direction of Mrs. Robert Gillette, president of New Lenox PTA last year.

"I am having the time of my life helping to rebuild the school system of Bremen," Mr. Flotow wrote to Mrs. Gillette in expressing his happiness over receipt of the clothing and the kindness shown by his former fellow townspeople.

He continued: "Spring has come after one of the most severe winters ever experienced here. Our schools were closed from Christmas until after Easter."
